Administrative History:

Biographical Note:

Alvin Max Strauss (1895-1958) was born in Kendallville, Indiana. After graduating from high school in 1912, he apprenticed with Charles R. Weatherhogg, J. M. E. Riedel, and J. F. Wing. Around 1918 he established his own business, A. M. Strauss, Architect, in Fort Wayne. During World War I, Strauss served in the U.S. Motor Transport Corps. He was a director of the Indiana Society of Architects, president of the Fort Wayne Society of Architects, member of the State Architects Registration Board, and active in other civic and fraternal organizations.

The firm was incorporated as A. M. Strauss, Inc., in 1948. In 1958, shortly before Mr. Strauss's death, it was reorganized as A. M. Strauss and Associates, Inc. Joseph J. Hulfeld succeeded A. M. Strauss as President. The firm became Strauss Associates, Inc. prior to 1970.

Herman Steiner Strauss was born in Evanston, Ill., in 1932. He joined the firm in 1950, received a Bachelor's of Science in Architecture from the University of Cincinnati in 1956, became an associate in the firm and Vice-President in 1958, and in later years was the firm's President.

Biographical files on A.M. Strauss are available at the Drawings and Documents Archive.
